

Community Voter's Challenge Rules

The Challenge

.. Which community can show the greatest percentage increase in voter participation over the results from the 2011 Federal election,

.. Voter participation -- How many people actually vote compared to the total eligible voters in that community. This can be expressed as a percentage.

.. By using percentages, communities of different populations can still compete fairly.

The figures will be calculated as follows:

..Use the 2015 Elections Canada Voters list to ascertain the number of eligible voters in a community the day of the Federal election. Add to this number any voters who register on election day or the days of the Advance Polls, to arrive at an updated number of eligible voters.

..Following the election, use Elections Canada figures to learn how many people voted in that community. Calculate a percentage using these two numbers (actual voters / eligible voters).

..The winning community – the greatest percentage increase compared to the 2011 Federal Election.

Adjudication

Contest organizers, will study these figures to ascertain the winning community.

*Prize for the winning community yet to be decided.
